CULTURAL DIRECTIONS FOR BUSH ROSES

Roses require a plentiful supply of organic matter in the soil and thorough drainage. Excavate the bed at least 2 feet deep. If your soil does not drain well place a layer of gravel on the bottom, then alternately fill with layers of soil and manure until the bed is filled. Roses like a heavy soil.

The hole should be dug large enough to admit all of the roots without cramping. The graft (i.e., the point where the root joins the top) should be placed at least 3 inches below the ground level. Prune after planting. Cut back to 2 or 3 stems with 3 or 4 buds on each stem. Water heavily until growth starts.

WINTER PROTECTION—In late fall mound up the dirt around each plant, then after ground freezes cover mound with several inches of leaves or litter to prevent alternate freezing and thawing. In the following spring remove the mulch and soil mound gradually. This will permit the soft, protected stems to toughen. After soil has been removed to natural level cut plant back to 3 or 4 stems with 4 or 5 buds on each stem.

KELLY'S EVERGREENS

EVERGREENS

Evergreens, with their beautiful symmetry and their richness of color, add grace and dignity to the landscape design as no other nursery product can. Within the past few years, evergreens have gained in favor for the planting of the home so that now, the modern design calls for practically all evergreens. And this favor has been justly won for, in winter as well as summer, their wonderful shapeliness and their gorgeous hues inoculate their surroundings with a spirit of cheerfulness and satisfaction.

To flank an entrance, the taller growing varieties are particularly effective; for rock walls, terraces and rockeries, the prostrate types should be used. As single specimens cut in the lawn, there is no more beautiful than the Colorado Blue Spruce. For windbreaks and backgrounds, use the Norway and Colorado Blue Spruce.

Remember our help and advice in beautifying your home is positively free, hence feel free to write us on any of these questions. We are sure that we can assist you.

All of our Evergreens are dug with a large ball of earth about the roots to insure safe transplanting. Crating and transportation are charged at cost.
